OREGON.

THE HON. DANIEL WEBSTER remains at Washington for another month, at the request of the President and Cabinet, to assist in drawing up the freaty on the Oregon question. His new res dence near Hoboken is being prepared for the reception of his family, who are expected to occupy it early in April.--N. Y.Sun.

Webster aid in the Oregon question! We can imagine no greater insult to American feeling than this. Was it not enough that the purchased tool of British fund-mongers should sell from us our own northern domain, without suffering him to play a treasonous part in yielding up our exclusive rights to the Oregon.-Cin. Enq.

This is but another evidence of what is going on just now, and we feel as though there was no time to be lost. Let the whole west rouse up as one man and her voice will not be unheeded except at the peril of those unheeding it .- Statesman.

As the Presidential election approaches, the to their care. March 1, 1844. strength of the Democratic party is concentrating itself. The differences among friends are compromised or postponed as the time draws near for facing the enemy.

The Newburyport Herald, a whig paper-we do not see the paper ourselves, but copy the passage from the Baltimore Republican-utters its forbodings in the following manner:

"If the battle is to be fought, in 1844, between Mr. Van Buren and Mr. Clay, we have not nows and never have had, the least doubt as to the result. It will be the reverse of 1840, and it will be brought It will be the reverse of 1840, and it will be brought about by the votes of not less than 120,000 citizens in various parts of the Union, who will vote for dian to John Holden, a Lunatic, vs. John Holden, in various parts of the Union, who will vote for Mr. Van Buren, not because they in reality like Mr. Van Buren, not because they in reality like west quirter of the south west quarter of section 5 town-hig 6 of range eight and the north west quarter of the south west qua less than Mr. Clay."

We hear no more of the arrangements of the great Democratic meeting in this city. We see no reason for delay. It would be large, united and enthusiastic, beyond any meeting we have had for

OTA clergyman, on seeing the sign of "Henry Clay for President," hung out at the door of a whig in New York city, remarked, "a wicked and adulterous generation seeketh a sign."

It is needless for us to say, that we wish our young friends much happiness and prosperity. We can find nothing to express our feelings better than the following lines of the poet: "If every wish of mine were bliss,

If every hope were pleasure Thou wouldst with him find happiness, And he in thee a treasure; For every wish and hope of mine And every thought and feeling, Is for the weal of thee and thine. As true as my revealing."
